The Professional Association of Biographical Counsellors (PABC) was established in 2009. Its members work as Biographical Counsellors in various settings in the UK and internationally. The Biographical Counselling Skills Course has developed from the three-year Diploma in Biographical Counselling which was run by the Biography and Social Development Trust from 1997 - 2014, which then became a BACP Accredited course in 2009.

Biographical Counselling

SKILLS FOR SOCIAL PROFESSIONS

One Year Part-Time

SEPTEMBER 2023 - JUNE 2024

At St. Luke's Therapy Centre, Stroud, Gloucestershire

Biographical Counselling

SKILLS FOR SOCIAL PROFESSIONS

Biographical Counselling is a holistic, integrative counselling approach that takes into account the psychological, social and spiritual dimensions of human experience. It offers a way of working that encourages people to find their own agency and creative freedom with their ideals, tasks and responsibilities. It aims to address issues on the level of healing and self development where crises and challenges become opportunities for growth and renewal.

This one-year, interactive course offers participants an in-depth experience of working with their own biography to explore their life events objectively and from within the framework of cosmic lawfulness. By looking at archetypal life-phases and using a variety of artistic approaches, we will support you in understanding your own unique place and purpose. Participants will be encouraged to creatively explore their questions, life themes and repeating patterns in a way that will enhance both their self-knowledge and professional practice.

The course will offer an introduction to counselling, outlining a framework for developing speaking and listening skills to enable transformative dialogue. These counselling tools will help us form the basis of positive communication that moves from polarisation to enquiry, from conflict to love and from rigidity to possibility. The course will work with events from the past, navigate the present moment and develop awareness of what is coming towards us from the future.

"The shared space will become the most sacred - the shared space will become our religion in the future" Orland Bishop

"Jane and Pauline are truly gifted course facilitators who share their thorough knowledge of biographical counselling and guide the group with sensitivity and deep humanity". VS, (Manager)

"The course has been profoundly life changing for me. I have developed and changed, transformed and grown, found deep connections and experienced much joy." VR (Trainee Psychotherapist)

"Every experience of our lives contains the mystery of our whole experience. It is a crystallization, a condensation of past, present and future of what we have been and what we can become". Margli Matthews, Co-founder of the Biography and Social Development Trust.

The course is informed by a variety of approaches to counselling and psychotherapy, particularly inspired by thinkers and practitioners who offer an understanding of soul and spirit, and embrace the search for meaning. It is grounded in ideas arising from Anthroposophy, a spiritual approach to life as outlined by Rudolf Steiner.

Biographical Counselling originated in the UK, and trainings have been developed in Russia, South America and Israel. It is part of a world-wide movement of Biography Work as founded by Bernard Lievegoed (1905-1992) which is used in coaching, organisation development and personal development.

Applicants

The course will be of interest to teachers, therapists, psychologists, coaches, doctors and nurses, faith workers and other professionals who are interested in human encounter and who wish to deepen their own path of self development.

We welcome applications from all sectors of the community and respect and value differences in age, class, culture, disability, ethnicity, gender and sexuality.
